

I've been seeing fractional CTOs becoming more common.

A company hires someone as a CTO on a part-time basis.

A fractional CTO can advise multiple startups at once.

All the way from seed stage to Series B, C, D.:

For seed-stage startups, they'll ask for technical strategy:

Which developers do I hire? What tech stack do I need?

It's probably like a temporary CTO.

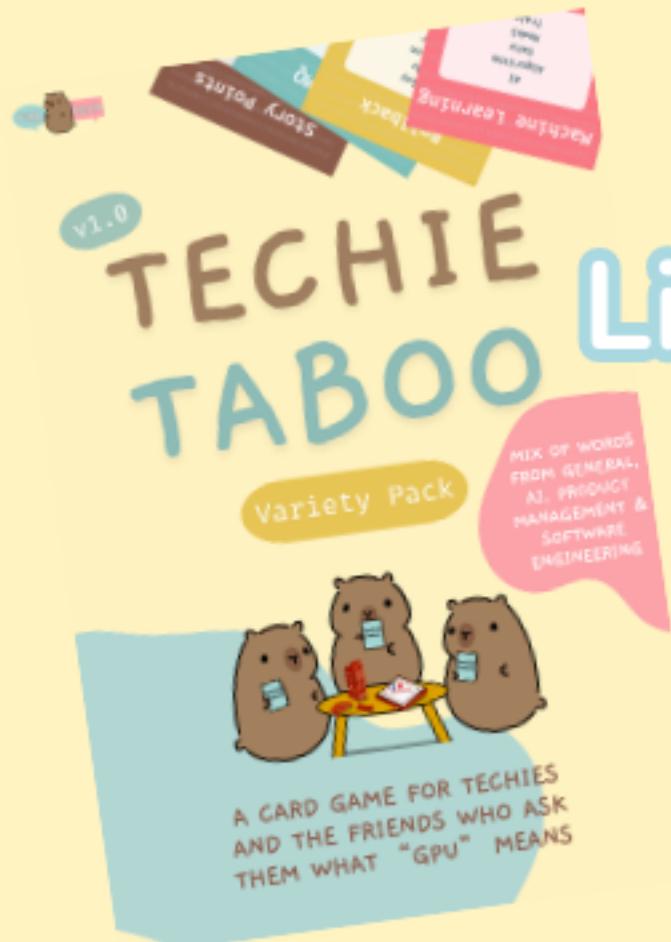

While you're finding someone really invested in the idea, get someone to solve immediate problems.

Want to see more real life in tech content like this?

Follow us at @ragtechdev

Link in bio ✨

Waitlists for our NEW card game
now open! 📩

